TRIUMPHANT ENTRY OF JESUS INTO JERUSALEM.

Interesting Exercises at St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church-Dedication of a Church.

Roman Catholic, Anglican and other churches of Washington yesterday celebrated in an impressive manner the feast of Palm Sunday in memory of the triumphant entry of Jesus into Jerusalem. This commemorative festival is said to have been a fixture in the Roman Church since the fifth century. As the introduction to Passion week, it is the prelude to what might be termed the most memorable period of biblical history.

One of the most interesting ceremonies in this city took place at St. Paul's Catholic Church, where a complete fudfillment of the ceremonial of the day was observed. This ceremony is said to have been in strict conformity to that which occurs yearly in Rome, emphasizing all the trayearly in Rome, emphasizing all the tra-ditions of the day and of a late papal bull. Preceding the 11 o'clock mass in this church the palms were blessed by the cele-brant of the day, Rev. Father Ketchum, director of the Catholic Indian bureau, assisted by Revs. McMullin and O'Reagan of the Paulist order. A procession was then formed, and as the new male choir of sixty voices took up the strains of a hymn of praise it advanced down a side aisle to the door of the church and passed out. Two of the cantors remained inside and sang the responses to the hymn "Gloria Laus," at the conclusion of which the procession of priests and choristers entered the church.

Before entering one of the priests knocked at the door three times, to signify, it is said, that until Jesus Christ came heaven was shut to mankind, but is now open to God, the Father, who sent His Son Jesus to die for the sins of mortals and obtain the grace of salvation. This is meant to move the penitents to compassion and contrition for their sins.

Following the distribution of palms to the congregation a solemn high mass was said. There was no sermon at the mass. Father James F. Mackin had arranged for a strict liturgical rendering, which is said to be somewhat different from more modern conceptions of the office to which the Roman Catholic churchgoers of Washington are familiar, in addition to a full rendering of the plain chant as introduced and perfected for use of the Roman Church by St. Gregory the Great. The choir evidenced careful direction and endeavor, and will be a regular feature in connection with worship at this church.

In the evening a solemn Gregorian ves-pers was sung by the new choir, and a sermon was preached by Rev. W. L. Sul-All the other Roman Catholic churches of the city had solemn services in com-memoration of the day, though not all

Rev. D. J. Stafford, D. D., celebrated the solemn high mass and preached yesterday morning at St. Patrick's Church. Rev. Thomas McGuigan acted as deacon, and Rev. William J. Carroll as subdeacon. The Passion was chanted by students from the Holy Cross College, and in the evening the choir rendered Dubois' "Seven Last Words." St. Aloysius Church was crowded to the doors at the solemn high mass, dur-

Dedication of a Church.

The formal dedication of Emmanuel Protestant Episcopal Church, Anacostia, took place yesterday, Bishop Henry Y. Satterlee officiating at the confirmation of a class of thirty-nine candidates incident to the occasion. The bishop also delivered an address. The exercises of the day began at 11 o'clock, and included morning prayers and communion. A choir of thirty voices participated, and in commemoration of the day palms were distributed to the congregaterlee at the church door and escorted him in a procession through the main aisle to the chancel, where the exercises of consecration began. In the evening the sermon was preached by Rev. Willard G. Davenport, rector of the parish, the events of Holy Week being his subject. Emmanuel Church is constructed of stone. It cost $10,000, and is built in the English style of architecture. It is located at the corner of Fillmore and Washington streets.

The present rector has held the office for the past seventeen years.

At the Church of the Epiphany last evening a consecration service was held, Rev. Dr. Randolph McKim and Bishop Satterlee officiating. The lessons of Palm Sunday were the subject of an address in the banday.

were the subject of an address by the bish op to a confirmation class of sixty-four. He said the day was one of joy for those who love Christ, because the highest moment of His earthly career is celebrated. Speaking of sin, the bishop said:

The spirit of lawlessness, of sin, of independence against God makes our lives narrower. The characteristic of the twentieth century is to laugh at sin. It is the spirit of the Sunday newspaper. People think that money is the real thing. But five minutes after we are dead we shall all be alive in the eternal life, and then of what use will money or the pleasures of the body be? We shall find that he that doeth the will of God abideth forever.' I believe that there is coming a reaction against this spirit of sin, of lawlessness. It is said that the Eniscopel Church does said that the Episcopal Church does not believe in conversion. It believes in a hundred conversions, that the individual may each time get a deeper and greater grasp on spiritual life. God is nearer in the darkness than in the light, and so there should be repentance from sin many times.'

In Lutheran Churches.

All of the Lutheran churches observed Palm Sunday yesterday, the sermons fitting the occasion. Aside from this, the administration of the rite of baptism by the pastors was a feature of the exercises in nearly all of the churches of this denomination, "The Palm Entry of Christ Into Jerusalem" was the subject of the sermon preached by Rev. Dr. J. G. Butler, pastor of the Luther Place Memorial Church. He announced that there will be services in this church from Monday to Thursday, with scriptural readings of the life of Christ during the last few days of His stay on earth. The celebration of the holy communion will take place Thursday night.

Rev. Robert M. Moore, pastor of Foundry M. E. Church, 16th and Church streets northwest preached vesterday marriage. northwest, preached yesterday morning on "The Triumph of Christ," and the services partook of the Palm Sunday spirit. "The Palms" was sung in many of the Presbyterian churches of the city, and the sermons of the day were appropriate. It is the expectation that holy week will be observed as never before not only in the local Roman Catholic. Episcopal and Lutheran churches, but in many of the other Protestant denominations. The days of the Savior's Passion will be recalled and amplified to a large degree.

At St. Peter's in Rome Paim Sunday is always celebrated elaborately. Splendidly arrayed, the pope is brought into church, borne aloft on the shoulders of eight men. Usually his entire retinue of cardinals, bishops and other church dignitaries are in attendance, all of whom bring him palm branches, on which he pronounces a blessing and sprinkles holy water. The great procession then starts the day's ceremonies and concludes with the mass. It is stated that all who attend the starts of t tone work in connection with recent productions of the government printing office have drawn attention to the provisions for illustrating the publications of the big printery. The work in this line turned out by the office has, it is said, improved perceptibly in recent years, and authorities on the subject say that there is but little to criticise and much to commend in the output as a whole. This work is the product of the office foundry, the location of which on the seventh floor of the new building is said to be an ideal one from a technical point of view, the latest ideas in electric form elevators, telephones and facilitation of the work. The production of illustrations for the publications of the office is not, however, the only utility of the foundry, and is in fact only one of its many functions. All slugs, leads, furniture and similar material used in a print-ing plant are turned out here to order. As it is the custom of the office to have matter intended for a long run on the presses either electrotyped or stereotyped, that grade of work necessarily occupies much of the time and skill of the number, it is said, is often greatly exceeded under rush orders. Many of the labor-saving devices and improvements in a me-chanical line utilized in the foundry are the invention of the experienced men in charge of the work. Everything is said to have een so systematized that the cost of production compares favorably with contract work, not considering the saving of time on a rush job incident to sending the work out to a private shop. The workmen re-ceive fair wages, and, of course, the thirty days' annual leave granted to the employes of the office, and are said to consider their work room an ideal place for the special duties required-light, ventilation cleanliness being the predominating features. It is said to be the boast of the office that the work turned out by the foundry is not only the finest of the kind. but the largest in amount of any similar plant in the world.

I walked down that way, and I sa five boys beside a building. As I walked up I heard them quarreling over 10 cents, which some one evidently had won in the crap game. This prisoner, Lee Green, began to walk away, and I made a run for him. After I had arrested him he reached to his back pocket and pulled out some bones, which he threw away in the alley," was the story told by Officer Lucas of the fifth precinct station in the case against Lee Green for profanity and disorderly conduct. Track and Field Season of Great Promise.

PRINCETON STARTS

BIG SIX-TRACK SCHEDULE AS NOW COMPLETED.

Meet to Be Held by Tigers - Gives Chance for Youngsters to Try Out.

The intercollegiate track and field athletic season will be launched next Saturday, with the Princeton spring handicaps at Princeton. The meeting under the auspices of the Tigers is a little too early to show the full strength of the rival teams, but it will serve to try out many ambitious youngsters who have been working diligently during the winter months. After the Princeton games track meets between the big institutions will come thick and fast, and there will be two or more big meets every week until the intercollegiate championships are held on Franklin Field, Philadelphia May 26 and 27. Yale has dual meets scheduled with Harvard and Princeton, while the Tigers in addition to meeting the Elis will measure speed and strength with Cornell at Ithaca and Columbia at New York. The University of Pennsylvania will hold its dual meets with both Cornell and Columbia, meeting the formed at Philadelphia and the latter at New York city.

In addition to these dual meetings between the members of the "Bix Six" every minor college of importance in the country has scheduled two or more track meets with its neighboring rivals, so that the track and field season in the east promises to be productive of more new records than usual. So successful was the indoor season that the intercollegiate world has its eyes on several men who, according to their recent performances, are virtually sure to lower existing marks. One of these is Ell Parsons of Yale, who on an indoor track has been running all around his remarkable outdoor record of 1.56 4-5 for the half mile.

Parsons, while only a freshman, last year broke the world's indoor record and equaled the intercollegiate figures for outdoors. With a year's additional experience great things are naturally expected of him. Yale also has a prospective record-breaker in Capt. McLanahan, the pole vaulter. In the dual meet with Princeton last year McLana-han set the new figures of 12 feet 1 inch for this event. At the intercollegiates he could not get above 11 feet 9 inches, but this year he should make his intercollegiate record a new world record. The third man who is likely to cut into world records at any mois J. B. Taylor, the University of Pennsylvania's quarter-mile champion, with a record of 491-5 seconds. Taylor made this new record last year with the greatest ease, and Coach Shell predicts 48 as his mark this year. D. C. Munson of Cornell is the next most likely recordbreaker. The easy manner in which he captured the mile run last May, while only a freshman, speaks well for 4.20 this spring.

"Big Six" Track Schedule. Below is presented for the first time the complete track schedule for the members of the "Big Six:"

April 22-Princeton handicaps, at Prince-April 29-University of Pennsylvania relay carnival, Philadelphia.

May 13-Yale vs. Princeton, at Princeton.

May 19-Yale vs. Harvard, at New Haven. May 26-Intercollegiate preliminaries, at May 27-Intercollegiate finals, at Phila-

Eastern university men need not be sur-prised if they find that the representatives of the west sweep everything before them at the University of Pennsylvania's tenth annual relay carnival on April 29. The westerners always resent the boasted superiority of the east in any kind of athletics, and they have been working with energy little short of desperation to repeat their performances of last year, when they won a majority of the events. As a matter of fact, the western teams place a much greater importance on Penn's relays than do the eastern teams. This is probably due do the eastern teams. This is probably due to the fact that this is the only meeting of the year when the west can "show up" the east. The western teams begin training early for the relays, and are always two or three weeks further advanced. three weeks further advanced in their training at this time. The eastern teams make the intercollegiates a month later the object of their training, and would sooner lose every event at the relays if this would insure them a better showing at the intercol-legiates. At present the University of Pennsylvania and Chicago are the favorites for the one-mile relay, Yale for the two-mile event and Michigan for the four miles. Schick, for Harvard, should capture the 100-yard dash, Gatlin of Chicago the 120-yard hur-dle, Shevlin of Yale the hammer throw, Rose, formerly of Michigan, the shot put, while the pole and the two jumps are a toss-up between the eastern and western of the "American Henley," and the other colleges entered as well, when she announced her decision not to send a crew to the regatta at Philadelphia May 27. The reason given by Yale for not sending a crew was insufficient material to get up a junior eight. But inasmuch as the Ells have always sent a crew to Annapolis, supposed to be made up only of junior oarsmen, it was thought that the Ells would surely send an eight to Philadelphia. A further reason for expecting Yale was the fact that Julian Curtiss, Yale's graduate crew advisor, is also one of the Henley stewards. Mr. Curtiss, however, did everything in his power to get the blue to be represented, but was overruled. As matters now stand, the college crews to com pete will be Cornell, Harvard, Pennsylvania, Columbia, Georgetown and probably Syracuse. The stewards say they are greatly pleased to think that they secured as large a college representation as they did, and that next year they hope to include even Yale. At present the situation in rowing is the most prosperous that the easting is the most prosperous that the eastern colleges ever knew. And what is of even more importance, the institutions which row at New London and those which meet at Poughkeepsie were never on such friendly terms before. On this point one of the stewards of the American Henley said recently to the writer: "It won't be very long before all the colleges will meet in one monster regatta instead will meet in one monster regatta instead of in two as now. Yale and Harvard, Yale especially, find it pretty hard to give up their dual races, but their regatta is surely being overshadowed by the Pough-keepsle regatta. In the end I think Vale and Harvard will be compelled by public sentiment and their own preservation to cast their lot in with the Poughkeepsle oarsmen."

Season of Lacrosse.

The intercollegiate lacrosse season, which had its real opening during the past week, promises to be more successful than any of its predecessors. The recent consolidation of the two intercollegiate consolidation of the two interconegiate lacrosse associations has at last firmly established the old Indian game, and it will not be long before it is one of the most popular sports in the colleges. Next to the intercollegiate A. A. A. A. the new lacrosse association comprises the largest number of individual colleges in its members. humber of individual colleges in its mem-bership. This association numbers eight— Harvard, Cornell, Pennsylvania, Colum-bia, Swarthmore, Stevens, Lehigh and Johns Hopkins. Because of the lateness assistant secretary of agriculture; Rev. G. M. The claim made by Harvard is that Cook played on a hotel nine in New England during the past the statement that Harvard is merely disappointed because her athletic authorities failed to secure this promising young athlete. Harvard's position has been given another peculiar appearance by the action of the faculty athletic committee in making Sprinter Glimore eligible, after the latter's admission that he once ran for a money prize. Harvard's contention is that Gilmore was only twelve years old at the time, and the prize was but $1. While Har-vard admits that Gilmore is technically ineligible, she contends that he did not vio-late the spirit of the rule, and that this hate the spirit of the rule, and that this should not be held against him.

A meeting of the Brown conference will be called shortly, and this and kindred subjects will be thoroughly discussed. A great many leading university men are beginning to protest against the literal interpretation of these rules, and it would not be surpriscipated they were more liberally construed.

ay this time? Let's see, you got out of the work house two weeks ago today; you were here Friday and I let you go on account of lack of evidence to substantiate the information. Now you are here, charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct," said Judge Kimball this morning, as he reco;nized a familiar face in the dock as The dore Scrivener stood up.

"I wasn't drunk, your honor. I haven had a drink since I got out of the workhouse two weeks ago," said the prisoner.

"Why, he was so drunk on Saturday that he could hardly stand up." said the nelice.
